To the right Honourable ROBERT Earl of AYLESBURY, Deputy with his Majesties approbation, to the most Noble HENRY Duke of NORFOLK Earl-Marshal of ENGLAND.

My Lord,

SUch have been the extravagant Actings of Paynters, and other Mechanicks in this licentious Age; that, to satisfie those, who are open handed to them, they have not stuck to depict Arms only for divers younger branches of Families with undue distinctions, if any at all; but to allow them to such as do bear the same appellation, though of no alliance to that stock: the permission whereof hath given such encouragement to those who are guilty of this boldness, that there are now a few who do already begin to prescribe, as of right thereto: so that these Marks of Honour, called Arms, are now by most people grown of little esteem: for apparent it is, that they make the Crescent, which is the known filial distinction for the second Son, to be also the only proper difference of the Grandson and heir of that second Son, and of his heires male; and a Mullet upon a Crescent, and a Martlet upon the same Mullet to be the distinction for a fourth Son of a third Brother, whose Father was the second Son of the chief stock: and according to that rule they for the most part, frame their Differences for others.

Againſt this abſurd uſage therefore, I have thought it requiſite, not only to offer to your Lordſhip the light of reaſon, which ought to be the principal guide; but the irrfragable Authoritie of ſeveral perſons of great Learning and high eſtimation for their knowledge in points of Honour and Arms: and likewiſe to give inſtance by ſundry important preſidents, as to the uſage of ancient times, when order and regularity were held in repute: not doubting but that your Lordſhip will in this point be ſo far ſatisfyed, as that for the future ſome reſtraint may be put to thoſe undue practiſes. Reſting

Your Lordſhips moſt obedient Servant

THE ANTIENT USAGE In Bearing of ARMS.

THat these Ensignes of Honour, as are commonly called Armes, which of later times have been chiefly used for distinction of families, had their original from the practise of great Commanders, in War, is not unknown to the learned: for certain is, that the faces of all great military Officers, being obscured by such Hoods and Helmets as were antiently worn in times of Battel; it was expedient, that by some other meanes their persons should be notifyed to their friends and followers. Necessity therefore requiring it, they depicted upon their Sheilds (which were borne for the defence of their Bodies) as also upon their Surcotes of silke, Banners, Pensons &c. certain badges, that might make them known at a distance from each other. Of which sort those that were most conspicuous; viz Crosses, Bends, Fesses, Cheverons, Saltiers &c. all single charges being ever held the best.

THE ANTIENT USAGE In Bearing of ARMS.

THat these Ensignes of Honour, as are commonly called Armes, which of later times have been chiefly used for distinction of families, had their original from the practise of great Commanders in War, is not unknown to the learned: for certain it is, that the faces of all great military Officers, being obscured by such Hoods and Helmets as were antiently worn in times of Battel; it was expedient, that by some other meanes their persons should be notifyed to their friends and followers. Necessity therefore requiring it, they depicted upon their Sheilds (which were borne for the defence of their Bodies) as also upon their Surcotes of silke, Banners, Penons &c. certain Badges, that might make them known at a distance from each other. Of which sort those that were most conspicuous; viz Crosses, Bends, Fesses, Cheverons, Saltiers &c. all single chardges being ever held the best.

In bearing whereof (as appeareth by divers old Rolls of Armes) such order was observed that none might assume anothers marke; but that there should be a plain and apparent difference in each man's Sheild, Surcote, Banner, Penon, &c. to the end, that upon any disorder the common Souldier might know his leader, and the better repair to his succour in case of danger.

But these later times having devised other sorts of Armour and weapons, both for offence and defence then of old were used; those marks and Badges in Sheilds, Surcotes &c. have been for divers past ages, as to any such military purpose, totally layed aside; and since meerly retained as honourary Ensignes by the Nobility and Gentry; especially to difference themselves and their families from the vulgar, and one from another: as also to distinguish the collaterals from those of the principal stock; for if they do not so, what do they signify; or of what use are they? In all which the Kings of Armes, in their respective provinces were to see due order observed.

Nevertheless such hath been the inadvertencie of sundry Gentlemen, in not regarding the ill consequence which the breach of order herein doth produce; as that, going to common Paynters to depict and marshall their Arms, seldom any regular Differences have been assigned by them for the descendents of younger Brothers.

Which

Which extravagant practiſe hath occaſion'd ſuch confuſion therein; that this laudable and antient uſage in bearing of Arms, on which our forefathers did ſet an high eſteem, is now overmuch ſleighted and almoſt grown contemptible.

It cannot be denyed, but that in the beſt times good order was not by every one exactly obſerved: for I find, that in the reign of Q. Elizabeth there were ſome unjuſtifiable practiſes in this kind: But, in this laſt age, through the liberty taken by divers mechanicks ſince the commencement of the late unparallel'd Rebellion, the diſorder herein is ſo far ſpread, as if greater care be not ſpeedily taken, ſuch a confuſion muſt inevitably follow, that the true uſe of Arms will be utterly forgot; moſt people, though of never ſo mean extraction, if they obtain a little wealth, intruding themſelves into theſe Marks of Honour, and uſurping what doth juſtly belong to others, eſpecially if their name doth ſound any thing like that of a Gentleman.

Seeing therefore theſe things relating to Honour to be thus out of ſquare, I have here thought fit to add to what I have already briefly ſayd, the Authorities and opinions of the moſt learned men in Heraulдry and Antiquities that this laſt age hath produced: from whoſe writings I have collected ſome particulars, which will amply corroborate what is here aſſerted.

Beginning with what was publiſhed in print by Mr. William Wyrley (a Staffordshire Gentleman an. 1592 (34 Eliz:) and intituled The true use of Armes, but written by Sampson Erdswike then of Sandon, in that county Esq; (whose deserved fame for his great knowledg in these commendable Studies is still fresh and flourishing in all those parts.) *

Next proceeding with what I have observed from an excellent but short discourse in elegant Latin De Origine et Antiquitate Armorum, written likewise in the same Q. Eliz. time (but never printed) by Robert Glover Esq; then Somerset Herauld, whose great abilities in this kind of learning I cannot sufficiently extoll; his most elaborate and judicious work, intituled The Catalogue of Honour, published after his death by Mr. Thomas

* I was assured by Mr. William Burton of Lindley in Leicestershire that Mr. Erdswike did to him acknowledge, he was the Author of that Discourse, though he gave leave to Mr. Wyrley (who had been bred up under him) to publish it in his own name. This Mr. Erdswike from pulick Records and antient Evidences compiled a brief, but elaborate work, of the Antiquities of Staffordshire, as yet not made publick by the press, which is now in the hands of an eminent and learned Gentleman of that County, Walter Chetwind Esq;

Mr. Thomas Mills his Executor in an. 1610. and the voluminous Collections from our publick Records, and ſundry choice old Manuſcripts, as alſo from original Charters and Evidences of note which I my ſelf have ſeen, but which are now diſperſt into ſundry hands) ſufficiently ſetting forth his great abilities therein.

From which diſcourſe; viz. De Origine et Antiquitate Armorum &c. I have ſelected certain obſervations, and added them to this work; whereby his great judgment as to this point of Differences in Arms is cleerly ſhewed.

So likewiſe from what the learned Camden, Sir Henry Spelman and others have expreſſed upon this ſubject; and given moſt evident inſtances of the laudable practiſe of antient times herein.

I ſhall begin with what I find ſo publiſht by Mr. Wyrley (but penn'd by Mr. Erdſwike)

To the Right Honourable the LORDS and others the Professors of Martial Discipline.

NObles and Gentlemen, I will salute you with a sentence of mine Author Sir John Froyſard, The adventures of Arms (saith he) are so divers, and so far oftentimes beyond expectation, as that their effects causeth great admiration: which saying of his, caused me with the more attention to read over his works, and finding the same most truly prosecuted through the whole course of his History, but especially in the actions and adventures of two famous Captains Sage and Imaginative, the one Sir John Chandos, and the other Sir † John Grayllie by name (commonly called the Captall de Buz) it delighted me (as a lover of Honour and chevalry) to note * down their several fortunes with some reasons of their falls.

I have been careful to set down (as my manner is)

† See more of him in the Institution of the Garter of El. Ashmole Esq.

* This was done in a Poem then published in print by the said Mr. Wyrley an. 1592. of these two persons, but writ by Mr. Erdswike.

is) the Standards, Pennons, Cote-armours; and other marks of Honour, to the end it may publickly be known of what neceſsity the uſe of them is, (as being for that cauſe firſt ordained:) how and in what manner they are to be uſed, and to whom they do of right moſt chiefly and properly appertain and belong. And theſe matters being well conceived (as indeed without ſuch Tokens no martial diſcipline can be exerciſed, no Army ranged, no attempt of any company atchieved; and ſo (by conſequence) no conqueſt made, nor ſo much as any Common-wealth (whatſoever) defended, neither from outward enemies, civil diſcord, nor the rebellion of any plebeian rout.

Be the ſame never ſo ſimple, rude, or of ſmall eſteem it will (I hope) reduce into eſtimation a matter both of Honour, order, and Neceſsity, which now (through the abuſe thereof) is ſo far run into contempt, as that (of many men) it is holden for a thing of no price, but thought to be a very mockery, and a matter of no other ſequence, then to ſet up vain and fantaſtical glorious fellows into a pride, and to draw from them ſome ſmall ſummes to certain perſons into an office inſtituted, which no doubt was by the wiſeſt and beſt governed ſtates at the firſt deviſed, and generally by all of any pollicy received, to a moſt neceſſary end: yet think they (as it is now in uſe) it ſerveth but only for that purpoſe. And indeed I must by the way complain, that certain of the said officers (or others pertaining to them) either for want of skill or maintenance, or otherwise for their gain, have committed faults not justifiable, whereby they have brought a matter of great Honour into defame, and injured thereby the Commonwealth, and brought both others that have managed those affairs with more discretion, and themselves into obloquy.

But these faults and errors, and some others also (spoken of in this dedication instituted to that purpose) will in the handling of this matter more easily appear; and the thing be (I hope) reformed, either by the good endeavors which the officers (understanding thereof) will use, or else by the magistrate, when he shall have knowledg of such the abuses as he may be informed of.

And first that Guydhomes, Ensignes, and marks of Armory be of necessity, let it be but considered whether wars be sometimes of necessity to be taken in hand or not; and surely I think there is none of so very mean capacity, but will yeild unto it that they be: especially defensive, and in some cases also offensive: which as a thing granted I will overpass.

And when I say further, that wars being lawful and of necessity, it must also be granted, that the same must be made by companies and bands of men, over which some must command, and the the reſt obey, and then will it follow, that for the ordering and dividing of thoſe to the beſt advantage, Standards and Banners muſt be allotted to every company, to the end they may draw together in their ſtrength, and perform ſuch actions as they ſhall be commanded; thus may you ſee the neceſsity.

And for the uſe, it doth alſo appear, that ſithence ſome muſt be commanders, it is of importance that they be known, both by the perſons over whom they command, and generally by all; and that ſo perſpicuouſly that upon every ſudden occurrent, the meaneſt and ſimpleſt common ſouldier may thereby know every particular officer, and captain that hath charge: for which purpoſe our Anceſtors device was, that ſuch men ſhould wear ſome ſuch coat of mark over his Armor, as whereby they might be eaſily diſcerned, to be the ſame perſons which indeed they were: and where ſomtimes (when occaſion ſo offered it ſelf) they were forced to uſe Paviſhes for their defence, whereby a great part of the mark which was upon their veſture, was ſhadowed from ſight, it was thought neceſſary that their marks ſhould be alſo laid upon their ſhields: the commanders of Horſe-men (their faces being for the moſt part covered) they added to the creſts of their Helmets ſome further diſtinction to be the better alſo known by: Thus much for the ordinance and uſe of Armory.

And

And hereby also may it appear to whom they do properly belong and appertain, namely, to Kings, Princes, Archbishops, Bishops, Earls, Barons, Lords of provinces and fees; Knights; officers in the Army, Navy or peece, and generally to all that have charge over Bands and companies of souldiers.

And now sithence from henceforth many of my speeches will tend to the discovery of such things as I take to be abused, erronious, or faulty, wherein I may peradventure not square in opinion with some others; and being my self no officer or of any authority, whereby I should have cause to deal in these affairs, I will therefore first beseech your Honours, and all others to whom it may appertain, that if any thing shall pass my pen which shall be offensive, that they will conceive no worse of it then I mean, which is but to bring these matters of Armory into question; to the end that if any thing be amiss (as I for my part think that many things are) that then the same may be reformed: but if happily I mistake, that then it would please such as be of judgment or skill, to justifie the same as well done, and I shall most willingly yield to authority and reasons.

And so not speaking but under correction, I say that, first I find (as I conceive) some blame to be imputed in your selves which be professed souldiers, that where your ancestors and all others generally did in their Standards, Banners, and

Pennons

Persons shew forth to the view and face of the enemy, certain fair, antient, and known marks, which their elders for the most part had usually before time carried, or at least themselves had then taken (if they but then were in their rising age) whereby their own people were in a goodly decent order conducted and led, and their enemies very much terrified, when they should see those marks shewed forth; the owners whereof had in their memories by plain feat of Arms overthrown their parents, or happely themselves, beaten them out of the field, razed down their castels and fortresses, sacked their towns and cities, wasted and spoiled their countries, ransomed their people, and generally so daunted and amazed them, that it was sometimes found to be true, that very bare names of some valiant persons overcame whole Armies: I can but blame you of all sorts, which shall make choice of Banners (which you call colors) so curtein-like and so far from all due order of Ancient bearing as may be; and for your parts which are descended from Ancestors of mark, I would be glad to hear any reason from you, to what end you should lay the same aside, and make choice of a curtein in the place thereof.

And you others (whose wisdom and valure have gained you the reputation of a charge) I would gladly also hear from you what should move you to be of that mind, as not to take some convenient mark, such a one as may be thought meet by authority for you, whereby you may gain an honour, both to your selves and your posterity, and by your good usage thereof much enlarge the reputation, you have by your valours obtained.

An other thing that is amiss, as I take it, and hath great need to be reformed, is the quartering of many Marks in one shield, coat, or Banner; for sithence it is true, that such Marks serve to no other use but for a commander to lead by, or to be known by, it is of necessity that the same be apparent, fair, and easie to be discerned; so that the quartering of many of them together, doth hinder the use for which they are provided. As how is it possible for a plain unlearned man (who may be as good a souldier in some respects as the best) to discern and know a sunder, six or eight, (what speak I of six or eight?) sometimes thirty or forty several marks cluttered all together in one shield or Banner, nay though he had as good skill as Robert Glover late Somerset that dead is, and the eyes of an Eagle, amongst such a confusion of things, yet should he never be able to decipher the errors that are daily committed in this one point, nor discern or know one Banner or Standard from another, be the same never so large?

So that except it be to be made in a pedigree or descent to lock up in an evidence chest, thereby to ſhew mens titles to their lands or the Alliences and kindreds of their houſes; otherwiſe (as I ſay) I ſee not to any uſe in the world they ſerve, ſpecially ſo many together to be made upon a mans veſture, Target or Banner; and therefore I could wiſh that every man would content himſelf with his own peculiar coat of name, and not to uſe above one quartered therewith at the moſt: which one yet doth not ſo much trouble the capacity of a man, but that he may both know and diſcern a Banner or ſhield well enough. And this one do I the rather eſteem well of to be born, for that a Prince or Noble man making challenge or title to any Country (for which he is forced to make wars before he can obtain it) it will be a goodly thing for him to ſhew forth his Standard of the Arms of that Country quartered with his own amongſt thoſe people which in reaſon and conſcience owe him duty and obedience, to the end that they may thereby be the ſooner induced to ſubmit themſelves to their true and lawful Soverain, as his ſubjects.

And for that cauſe (as I take it) King Edward the third and his valiant ſons deviſed and ſhewed forth the Arms of France and England quartered together, and although my Authour ſaith that Jaques * Dartvell, was the firſt deviſer thereof

* This Jaques d' Arvell was a wealthy citizen of Gant, and had great intereſt and authority in Flanders under K. Edw. 3. in oppoſition to the French, as the Hiſt. of that time do amply ſhew.

yet will I not believe otherwise, but that the principal reasons that led the King thereto, was to make known the justness of his title to that kingdom where he then intended to make wars.

But now it may be objected, sithence a Prince or great Lord may have title to several Countries, that therefore it is necessary for him to beare all such tokens or marks as he hath title too: To this I answer, that although I could yeild to them (but that it will bring the confusion aforesaid) yet is it of no such necessity, for that a man needs to shew his title but onely to them whom he means to subdue: and if it should fortune that he had title to divers and several countries, and that he would make wars to them all at once, yet should it not be needful to him to shew forth any more marks quartered in one Standard, but onely unto every several Country the Arms of that nation quartered with his own.

But this being the case of Kings and Princes, wherein (amongst others) our most famous, noble and worthy Kings and princes of this land, have shewed themselves most prudent and wise; to what purpose is it, that others bring out commanders under their prince, and which of themselves have neither title to country nor are able to maintain wars, should in their princes service fester their Banners and shields with such an infinite number as many do?

And in this point I cannot enough commend the the Baron of Stafford, who herein ſheweth his great skill and temperance; for although his Anceſtors have had title to quarter the marks of that valiant Thomas of Woodſtock (youngeſt ſon of King Edward the third) Earl of Buckingham and Duke of Gloceſter; of Bohune Earl of Hereford and Northamton and high Conſtable of England: and alſo of that great houſe of Somerſet, which by their anceſtors John Earl of Somerſet, (younger ſon to John of Gaunt) deſcended from the ſame king Edward the third, (I omit to ſpeak of divers Barons and others of great eſtate, whoſe heires both with revenue and honor enlarged greatly his family) yet the ſaid Baron contents himſelf with the paternal mark of his houſe.

It were to be wiſhed that this matter of Quartering ſhould be reformed, as well for untruths therein oftentimes committed, as for the titles that may be brought in queſtion thereby to lands and Heritages: And as being one of the chiefeſt things that bringeth honour of Armory into diſgrace: for not long ago heard I one ſpeak in this manner, Did I not (quoth he) know the grandfather of this man (ſpeaking of the owner of a Scuchion wherein were quartered many marks) to purchaſe by plain patent (although he never were man at Armes) both his coat and creſt within theſe forty years, and how comes it now to paſs that I ſee his nephew inveſted in all this Armory? (numbring many and divers ſeveral devices, all in one shield, by way of quartering) this being a very mockery to see a man of no valour or estimation in warlike affairs, and the paternal Ancestors of whom (for ought that can be proved) were not in any late age welders of Arms, to entrude themselves into so many Badges of Armory, is not the least matter to bring into contempt an order so honourable and necessary as the bearing of Arms is.

Differences in Arms to younger children, and their Descendents.

Another matter that to my understanding is also to be reformed, is the manner of differings, which are by the younger Brothers and their posterities laid upon their marks, being cressants, mollets, &c. and that such little ones, as that a man cannot discern them a very small distance from him, which differences are in reason to be made fair, plain, and large, that they may be also as easie to be discover'd as any other Devise that is in the Coat, Shield, or Banner, otherwise they serve not to the purpose for which marks were first ordained.

And the inconvenience which ensueth of this error will the more easily appear, if I but set you down the words of mine Author (treating of an accident that happened in such a case) which be these: Et feist Mr. Robert Baileul aller sa Banniere dicte vont devant en escriant Moriaines les Hennuiers qui ia estoint esbahys. Aperceurent la Banniere de Moriaines qui encore estoit tout Droicte, si cuiderent que ce fuist la leur ou ilz se devoient radresser, car moult petitez avoit de difference de leurs a l'autre; car les Armes Moriennes sont Barres contre Barres d'Argent & d'Azure a deux Cheverons de Gueules. Et le cheveron de Mr. Robert avoit une petite crolete d'or, si ne l'adviserent mye bien les Hennuiers ainsi cuiderent bouter de fait dessubs la Banniere de Mr. Robert, si furent moult fierement reboutez et tous desconfis.

For these Hainours being led by Sir William Bailleul thought in the stir and business to have come to his Banner hearing the surname of Morans called upon; and seeing as they supposed, their captains ensigne, and the difference of Sir Robert, being the youngest Brother, but a little cresset upon the upper cheveron, they could not apperceive; so that the most of them were either slain or taken, and the elder Brother (the Knight their leader) was glad to save himself as well as he might: The Lord of Coucie son in law to King Edward the third, suffered also reproch through the hard dealings of the Lord of Chin, who mated his Banner against certain Englishmen of Sir Hugh Caverlys company, being either the same that Coucy bore, or the difference so small as might not be discerned, whereby the said Lord Coucy though he were absent as far as Austrich, had dishonour honour spoken of him, as in the discourse * of the Capitol I have touched.

Thus then having shewed, by example, the harm and inconvenience, that cannot but many times happen, through the littleness and niceness of such differences, I have thought it not amiss to lay before you the differings that antiquity used; that by comparing them together, you may discern the great wisdom of our ancestors, and our own imperfections in this point, for want of due consideration: which was done at the first by changing of the device born into other colors only; but when that would not suffice for the number of leaders (many times all of one house) then were they forced to vary their marks by adding of either Bars, Bends, chevrons, cheefes, quarters, Borders, labels, losinges, or such like, and very seldome should you see in those times cressants, molles, or such like small thing born for a difference; and if any did, yet was the same so large and fair that it might be seen as well as any other device which should be in the Shield or Banner. And for the proof, I will give you the example but of one house onely for your better information (though I could do the like of many others) namely, that of the Bassets, who indeed (in my judgment) varied their marks of honour very finely, and that upon good respect:

* viz. in the Poem mentioned in the margent of pag.

For Ralph Basset, (the son of Thurstine who came in with the Conquerour) which Ralph (as it is said) devised the Law of Franke pledge, and many other good laws, being Justiciarius Angliæ; having four sons, to wit, Thurstine, Thomas, Richard, and Nicholas; the first and last both failing; the issue of the one being extinct, and the other overthrown by standing against King Henry the second with King Steven; The son of Thomas went away with his ancestors mark without distinction (being undie gold and red).

But the sons of Richard Basset being advanced by their mother Mauld, the daughter and heir of Sr. Geffrey Rydell Knight, varied the marks of the said Geffrey in this manner: first; Geffrey Lord of Watering the eldest son of Richard Basset and the said Mauld, (surnaming himself Rydell) the progeny of him bare gold three piles red, with a scarff or Bend of blew over all.

Ralph Basset the eldest son of Richard, (which Richard was the second son of Richard and Maud Rydell, and to whom his mother gave the Barony of Weldon) bare gold three piles red, a Border of steel studded with gold compassing the same about.

Also Ralph Basset, the son of Ralph, third son of Richard Basset and Maud, to whom the said Richard gave the Barony of Drayton in Staffordshire, bare gold three piles red, with a quarter of Brittain.

And Roger Basset of Warwickshire varied from Drayton, changing the piles into black.

But Ralph Basset (descended from William Basset Baron of Sapcote in Leicestershire, which William was Justice in Eyre, and youngest son of Richard Basset and Maud Rydell his wife) having no advancement by the house of Rydell) detained undie the device of the Bassets, and only changed the colors thereof into silver and black.

And Sir Ralph Basset of Cheshire Knight (a younger son of Sapcote) varied from that house, by adding to his device of Martlets, a red Label, whereunto he was forced by reason the progeny of Thomas Basset had many ways varied the bearing, by changing the color thereof.

As John Basset of North-Lassenham in Rutlandshire bare it, varied into white and red.

And Allen Basset Baron of W
emale, differed this device o undie into white, and blew, fro whom the Sanfords descending assumed the same mark, an now Browning beareth it being descended from an heir of Sanford.

The house of Cheddle yet afte
this dividing it self into tw branches, John Basset of Ne place (being the younge house) left the Labell, an charged the black undie with many Besants dispersed all ove them.

But after all this (about the time of King Edw. III. the line of Ralph Basset of Cheddle
being extinguished; Simon
Basset Baron of Sapcote (descended from the forenamed William) and Sir John Basset of Blore Knight, (heire to the above named John Basset of New place) both of them (I know not the cause

cause why) at one instant (as I think) relinquished their device of undie, and invested themselves into Ridale: that is to say, Simon into the piles charged with a quarter vary white and blew; and Sir John into the same, with a quarter silver, and a black Griffon thereon.

And in Tanworth Church (near to Drayton) well and old, there standeth gold three piles red, a quarter silver, and a cross party black thereon.

Thus have I set down unto you (though some thing tediously) the life that antiquity followed in a very glorious line, for Lords, Knights and Gentlemen, which flourished divers hundreds of years hitherto: And you may see that these men (though they were many of them great Barons) were not ashamed of their Differences, but laid them forth largely to the view; neither do I esteem it a shame whereby any man should covet to hide the same, to be descended as a younger Brother, sithence that every Brother (having the like parents) is as well descended as the elder, and therefore as good a Gentleman (though not so rich) as he. And the more is his honour, if without the help which by reason of his patrimony the elder hath, he can advance himself into place of office or dignity, whereby he may raise an other flourishing family of the same surname: and therefore you my maisters that be younger Brothers, never hide your Differences by putting forth a little cressant or a peeping moolet, but use some fair large device, sithence in truth your estimation is by your rising to be had in as good a regard as if you were the elder.

And now being in speech of younger Brothers and their differences, I have observed two kinds of them which antiquity used, (besides the aforesaid) one was, that such as were advanced by Kings, Princes, or other great Lords, did many times bear some part of the device of him who advanced them, by way of addition unto the mark of their own family, which served very aptly to distinguish them from their elder house.

The other was, that divers did add unto the mark of their own house, some part of the device of that family from which their mothers descended; and both these two kinds of differings are (in my mind) greatly to be commended, not only for that they may be made large and apparent, and for that cause serve very properly to the use for which Badges are ordained, but also that the one makes manifest a greatful mind (in him that is advanced) to his prince or lord of whom he received benefit, and by reason thereof linketh them together in a kind of amity, which seldom or never is worn out, and by that means a great strengthening it is unto both Houses.

The other not only serveth to unite the families which have matched together in the foresaid love and amity, and thereby worketh the like effect; but besides it sheweth the certainty of the descending of the said younger Brother out of both the said Houses, and also giveth knowledg of the time thereof, whereby if any title of inheritance be at any time cast upon the younger Brother, either descending from ancestor of the fathers side, or mothers, it gives him a testimony of his title, and witnesseth unto the world the truth of that descent by the continual bearing of that device, so that this kind may (many times) work profit to the bearer, and avoid many troubles and suits: and therefore into one of these kind of differings could I wish our younger Brothers, which from henceforth shall be advanced, to invest themselves, as being both honourable, fair, certain, and profitable.

But

But now it may be objected, that the order in use sheweth plainly enough the diversity of Brothers, as the cressant a second, the moller the third, that by this means the matters are made certain. To this I answer, that first the time is not (by this means) signified, neither can it be known which of the Cressant-bearers was the Uncle or Nephew. And further, it is a very usual matter for every new Riser at this day, if he can find that there is any of the like Surname that beareth mark, presently to usurp the same with a Cressant, or some such difference, so that (for my own part) I do seldom credit such kind of differings nor their bearers, unless it be by some other testimony or proof made manifest, which cannot be counterfetted so well in the other device, except the riser should be throughly acquainted with the descent of him whose line he seeketh to intrude himself into.

And besides, it may be the sooner espied by them of the true line and forbidden; nor the other dare (for fear thereof) so soon venture the committing of a falsity. But what a confusion is it when you shall see the second of a second Brother, and sometimes an other second from him, to cluster one Cressant upon an other; many times three or four one on horseback upon an other; where as by the aforesaid bearing of the difference from the Prince, Lord, or mothers family, a man may better distinguish the Brothers and set down for a second, a third, and fourth, &c.

And after from those again, (as it fareth, longer and more apparent stemmes) and the more apt am I to speak against these [illegible] Differences (as they are called) knowing them to be but new inventions, and any of them as ordinances (in [illegible] as now they are) never used before the time of King Henry the first; before which time men were much more wary and different in bearing of their marks, and in forseeing that no innovations should enter into their families; nor that any should lay away or remove their Differences without special warrant or license of them that thereby might be prejudiced: for a Label being much in use for the heire apparent (to wear as his difference during his fathers life) was seldom removed to the second Brother, but when the inheritance went unto the daughters of the elder Brother; and then the second was permitted to bear the same for his Difference, as being the heire male of his family and as one that remained in expectancy; yet might not the second Brother use to intrude himself into the absolute signs of his house (the inheritance being in his neeces or kinswomen) as appeared in the case between Grey of Ruthin and Hastings which was this:

John Lord Hastings married to his first wife Isabell one of the sisters and heires of Almary de Valence Earl of Pembrooke, by whom he had issue John Hastings, (after Earl of Pembrooke) Elizabeth, (married to Roger Lord Gray of Ruthin) and some other children which needs not to be spoken of, for that, as I take it, all the lines of them fail'd before the extinguishing of the line of the said John Earl of Penbrooke. After (such issue being had) the said Isabel Fallence died, and the said John Lord Hastings took to a second wife Isabel the Daughter of Hugh Spenser, by whom he had issue Hugh Hastings, and Thomas, and then died, and left as heir John his son by his first Wife (who was Earl of Penbrooke, as I have said, erected by reason of his mothers inheritance) which John Earl of Penbrooke married and had issue another Earl of Penbrooke, who also married and had issue a third Earl of Penbrooke; but in the end all the line of the said John Hastings (first Earl of Penbrooke of that family) failing, there arose a question betwixt the Heirs of Roger Gray and Elizabeth his wife being sister (of the whole blood) and the Heirs of Hugh Hastings brother (of the half blood) to the said John Earl of Penbrooke, for the inheritance of the Hastings.

(married

But Gray recovering the same (by the law that saith, Possessio fratris de feodo simplici facit sororem esse hæredem) called the said Hastings also (having removed the difference of his mark for that he was then heir male of that house) into the Court of chevalry, and there having a judgement against him, the said Hastings was compel-

leal to use a Difference (which was a Label of silver) upon his mark, a fair red sleeve of his Ladies upon his golden vesture: since which the heirs of that younger family have used the said Label even until this our age.

So that you may see by this, that the law was then taken to be such, that such an heir male as had not the inheritance of his Ancestors should not be suffered to bear his mark without distinction; for it should seem (by this) that the issue of them that had married the heir general of any family (being by reason thereof possessed of the lands) had not only an interest in the Arms, but might also forbid any man the bearing thereof.

There is also another matter out of square, which is, that every man that obtaineth large possessions, (whether the same be acquired by his judgment in law, traffick in merchandize, or any other mean) yea although never any of his progenitors, (from whom he can derive himself) had the charge to lead men of Arms, will yet at this day intrude themselves into the Badges and marks of souldiers: for although such as be descended from men of martial discipline, have an interest in their ancestors marks (amongst other their goods) and therefore may shew forth the same to their predecessors glory, and their own (in respect of their descent) yet such men as rise by their sciences, judgments, or skill in other arts, affairs, or trades (although they b-to be reverenced for their wisdom and praiseful actions, and had in honour answerable to their vertues and dignities) have yet little to do with the marks or Badges of soldiers.

For altho a reverend Judg, that hath ministred law and justice a long time (and that so long as that thereby to his great glory) he hath obtained reputation, wealth, and revenue, is to be had in high estimation, and in respect thereof to have allow'd him some note or mark of Honour fit for his calling, yet (to my simple judgment) the same should be disposed unto him after the old Roman order, by signifying the manner of his rising, rather then to put a corslet on his back, a Burgonet on his head, a Target on his Arm, and a Sword by his side, being things that would cumber greatly the good old man to use, either for his own defence, or but to shew (by way of triumph) for his glory, sithence, neither is it tolerable (by reason of his age) nor in his youth did he exercise himself in welding thereof.

And as these things are unseeming for him to wear, no more can I see any reason why he should deck up the moniments of his house with such signs or tokens, except he can derive himself from an ancestor that hath had the use of such things, and then (to set them forth as a glory to his deceased parent) will greatly augment the regard of his rising, which rising yet (of it self) is a sufficient ficient Honour, the same being by any just, vertuous, or laudable means. And these new risings I could wish to be of more reputation then they seem to be esteem'd of, either by others, or themselves that so rise; as is apparent by many of their doings, who intrude themselves into marks of Antiquity, and setting forth of descents, wherein they are yet faln many times either to counterfet, or else to derive themselves from some poor parents, which they (either truly, or by surmize) alledge to have descended from some antient family, and that have been by some accident or other in former time decayed: wherein me thinks men do greatly mistake the matter, for that (in my opinion) a man that is but of mean parentage and riseth by commendable means, is equivalent to him that riseth from a decayed family, namely when his said parent hath been overthrown for offence, as many times they alledge in plain terms. And I could wish that every man that raiseth a House by his good industry, should be honoured with some such Badge or Mark, as should be answerable to the quality of his rising; and not every man of what condition soever they be, to entrude themselves into the signs and marks of Souldiers, and such as follow the field with martial exploits.

Some people also there are that be so precise, as that they do disallow altogether the setting forth of any memory of well deserving men, which have ſhewed themſelves valiant either in the act of Religion, their Princes ſervice, or defence of their Country; neither allowing their poſterity to ſet forth any memory of their praiſes, nor ſuffering any monuments or garniſhments to remain of their Burials; as tho it were a matter offenſive to God to have good men well ſpoken of, or their valorous doings by their obſequies either reverenc'd, or by any records remembred.

To ſuch men I have not thought it amiſs to ſhew them their error by directing them to ſuch places of Scripture as do not only tolerate and allow of ſuch actions, but alſo praiſe and commend the doing thereof, and in ſome ſort charge and command the ſame to be done, whereby both they may (if they be not obſtinate) reform their miſconceived opinions, and others may be fortifyed in their praiſeful endeavours towards the honouring of vertuous and worthy men, to the animating of poſterity to imitate their laudable actions; ſithence indeed the chiefeſt matter that ſtirreth up men to do well next their zeal to God, and the love of vertue it ſelf, is to think that not only their ſouls ſhall be rewarded with the mercies of God, but alſo that their doings ſhall be had in a reverent remembrance with the reports of all good men that ſhall ſpeak of them.

And firſt, that the uſing, bearing and ſetting forth of Banners, Enſigns and Marks of Armoury are allowable by the sacred scriptures, it appeareth by the holy Evangelist Saint Luke recording the peregrination of Saint Paul, and speaking of Armory without reprehension (which he would not have done had the use thereof been offensive) in this sort:

(Act. Apost. cap. 28. v. 11.) Post menses autem tres navigavimus in navi Alexandrina, quæ in insula Hyemaverat cui erat insigne Castorum. And after three months we departed in a Ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the Isle, whose Signs was Castor and Pollux.

And in the book of Numeri, God by his prophet Moyses commandeth his people of Israel to devide and dispose themselves into companies by their Ensigns and Banners speaking unto them in these words:

(Num. Cap. 2. v. 1. 2.) Locutusque est Dominus ad Moysen & Aaron, dicens, singuli, per turmas Signa, atque vexilla, & domos cognationum suarum castra-metabuntur, filiorum Israel per Gyrum tabernaculi fœderis. And the Lord spake unto Moyses and unto Aaron saying, Every man of the children of Israel shall pitch by their own Standard with the Ensign of their father's house, far off about the Tabernacle of the Congregation shall they pitch.

So that by this you may see, that as these matters be no new inventions of men, so they are also things allowable by the word of God.

Neither

Neither do Obſequies or monuments enſuing worthy acts want the authority of Scriptures, for in the book of Numeri it is written thus:

(Num. cap. 31. v. 48.) Cumque acceſſiſſent principes exercitus ad Moyſen, & Tribuni, centuriones-que dixerunt, nos ſerui tui receníuimus numerum pugnatorum, quos habuimus ſub manu noſtra: & ne unus quidem defuit, ob hanc cauſam offerimus in donarijs Domini ſinguli quod in præda auri potuimus invenire, Periſcelides & Armillas, Annulos & Dextralia ac Murenulas, &c. Et ſuſceptum intulerunt in Tabernaculum teſtimonij in monimentum coram Domino. And the officers which were over thouſands of the Hoſt, the Captains of thouſands and Captains of hundreds came near unto Moſes and ſayd thy ſervants have taken the ſumme of the men of war, which are under the chardge, and there lacketh no one man of us: we have therefore brought an oblation for the Lord, what every man hath gotten, of Jewels of Gold, Chains, and Bracelets, Ear-rings, and Tablets, &c. and brought it into the Tabernacle of the Congregation, for a memorial for the children of Iſrael before the Lord.

And in another place of Numeri thus:

(Num. cap. 16. v. 36.) Locutuſq; eſt Dominus ad Moyſen dicens, præcipe Eliazaro filio Aaron ſacerdoti, ut tollat Thuribula quæ jacent in incendio, & ignem huc illucque diſpergat: &c. producatque ea in laminas, & affigat altari: &c. ut cernant ea pro signo & monimento filij Israel. And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying; Speak unto Eleazer the son of Aaron the Priest, that he take up the Censers out of the burning, and scatter thou the fire yonder &c. Let them make broad plates for a covering of the Altar &c. and they shall be a sign unto the children Israel.

Also in the book of Joshua I find these words (Josuæ cap. 4. v. 5.) Et ait Josue ad eos, ite ante arcam Domini Dei vestri ad Jordanis medium & portate inde singuli singulos lapides in humeris vestris, juxta numerum filiorum Israel, ut sit signum inter vos: & quando interrogaverint vos filii vestri cras, dicentes quid sibi volunt isti lapides? respondebitis, defecerunt aquæ Jordanis ante arcam fœderis Domini, cum transiret eum, idcirco posita sunt lapides isti in monimentum filiorum Israel usque in æternum. And Joshua said unto them, pass over before the ark of the Lord your God into the midst of Jordan, and take you up every man of you a stone upon his shoulder, according to the number of the Tribes of the children of Israel, that this may be a sign among you, that when your children ask their fathers in time to come, saying: what mean you by these stones: Then you shall answer them that the waters of Jordan were cut off before the ark of the covenant of the Lord when it passed over Jordan; the waters of Jordan were cut off; and these stones shall be for a memorial unto the children of Israel for ever.

(Num

(Num. cap. 27. v. 8.) And for the disposing of heritages it is written thus. Homo cum mortuus fuerit absq; filio, ad filiam ejus transibit hæreditas; si filiam non habuerit, habebit successores fratres suos; quod si & fratres non fuerint, dabitis hæreditatem fratribus patris ejus; sin autem nec patruos habuerit, dabitur hæreditas his qui ei proximi sunt. Eritque hoc filijs Israel sanctum legis perpetua sicut præcepit Dominus Moysi. If a man dy and have no son, then ye shall cause his inheritance to pass unto his daughters: And if he have no daughters, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his Brethren: and if he have no Brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his fathers Brethren: and if his father have no Brethren, then ye shall give his inheritance unto his kinsman, that is next to him of his family, and he shall possess it: and it shall be unto the children of Israel a statute of judgment as the Lord commanded Moses.

(Num. cap. 26. v. 1. and v. 5.) And for the collection of Genealogies, thus saith God to Moses and Eleazar: Numerate omnem summam filiorum Israel à viginti annis & suprà, per domos & cognationes suas, cunctos qui possunt ad bella procedere. Reuben primogenitus Israel, hujus filius, Henoch, à quo familia Henochitarum: & Phallu, à quo familia Phalluitarum; & Hezron à quo familia Hezronitarum. Take the summe of the people from from twenty years old and upwards, as the Lor commanded Moses and the children of Israel (ac cording to their families and kindred, all tho

Israel: The children of Reuben, Hanoch, whom cometh the family of the Hanochites: Pallu, the family of Palluites: of Hesron the f mily of the Hesronites.

And for a further proof of the recording Genealogies, it is to be considered how diligent th same hath been observed through the whol course of the Scriptures, as the descents from Adam to Noe, and from Noe to Abraham, & do sufficiently testify. And more, that with th spirit of truth the Genealogy of Christ our Savio

All these things being therefore by the Scriptur of God (the decider of all controversies) prove and declared: Your Lordships may see that th bearing of Arms, raising and advancing of *Sta erecting of Monuments, Enroling and regestring Pedegrees, and Descents, have joyned to the an ent customs and laws both of this Land and other nations, the authority of Gods word, bei very well accompanied with discretion, reaso and judgment; for God having by his sacr

institution ordained Kingdoms, Provinces,

Seigniori

Seignories, and that over them Kings, Princes and Magiſtrates, ſhall command, rule, and govern his people, to the end chiefly that his heavenly Kingdom may be repleniſhed with the bleſſed ſouls of his ſervants, for the inſtructing whereof he hath alſo ordained his holy Church, and the Biſhops, paſtors and miniſters of the ſame, which Biſhops and other ſpiritual officers cannot ſo well enform his Chriſtian people without the aid of the ſaid Kings and temporal Lords: neither can they govern their particular Countries either from the invaſion of outward tyrants or inward Rebels, but through the uſe of their ſword of juſtice, which ſword cannot be exerciſed againſt unruly perſons being of ſtrength, wanting men skilful in martial Diſciphine, who cannot manage thoſe affairs but by mean of the aforeſaid Arms and Enſigns, in manner as before I have more largely expreſſed.

And in like ſort as Princes, great Lords, Judges, Magiſtrates and Governours, do uſe to wear ſacred Robes of gold, purple, ſcarlet, and other ornaments and apparel; not to take pride in, or for any vain oſtentation or ſhow; but only that they may be diſtinguiſhed from the inferior people, to the end that a reverent regard may be had of them in reſpect of the high office which under God here on earth they bear.

And as theſe things no man of any reaſon will gainſay, ſo I ſee not but as well may their juſt vertues and good goverment be remembred with Funerals, Obsequies, and Monuments, after their decease, whereby such as succeed in government may also be had in more high estimation, and a fair example is thereby given them to imitate the regiment of their predecessors,

Likewise doth the Registring of descents carry with it reason joined to authority and custom; for as by Gods law there is commanded a priviledge of enheritance to the first begotten of Israel, and so for want of sons to the females, and from them to others answerable to the proximity of their blood and kindred, which with the laws of this land, and of most nations do concur and agree, it doth well stand with peaceful government for the avoiding of contentions which may rise for want of records, to testify the truth of mens titles to their enheritances, that Genealogies and Pedegrees, should be enrolled and kept in remembrance.

I have my good Lords stood the longer upon this point, for that of late travelling through some countries of this Land, and having a desire to see the Moniments of antiquity which have remained in such places as I passed by, for which cause as otherwise I many times resorted to Churches and other houses to satisfy my affection, I found that many Moniments both of Burials and in glass were so broken and defaced, that vnethe may be had any knowledge what the fragments remaining remaining did ſignify: and enquiring of the inhabitants how it came to paſs that thoſe things were ſo blemiſhed, they made report that certain perſons, delighting as may ſeem in novelty, for they can abide no mark of Antiquity, had defaced the ſame. Theſe men that take upon them to be reformers, whoſe deſires are great through the ſingularity and pride they have in their own wits and underſtandings, weening themſelves to be very wiſe, where indeed they are very ſimple, and only look but into the abuſes of things, and do not ſee into the grounds and depth of the reaſons and cauſes for which good ordinances were made, go about to find faults, where many times none are; but if peradventure they hap to find an ordinance well made miſuſed, then ſtreight never ſeek they to reform the abuſe, but by their wills, down goeth ordinance and all, ſuch is their inſolency, raſhneſs, and want of judgment.

It were well done therefore my good Lords, and I could wiſh that your Honours having ſometimes acceſs to her Majeſty, and oftentimes conference with my Lords of her privy Councel, ſhould enform her Highneſs, and their Honours of the ſaid abuſes committed, and to be thereby a mean that theſe ſimple fellows taking upon them to be reformers, might be reformed themſelves, ſelves, and both kept from deſtroying of good ordinances, and be puniſhed for their offences in that behalf committed.

In the mean time yet ſhall I deſire that Honourable perſonages will look better to the Moniments of their anceſtors, by correcting the deſtroyers thereof, and therein to imitate the laudable actions of William Fleetwood, Serjeant at the Law, and Recorder of the City of London, who being commiſsioner amongſt others for the viſitation of cauſes Eccleſiaſtical, by the Princes authority, by vertue thereof impriſoned certain wilful perſons that had defaced the Moniment of Queen Katherine Dowger at Peterborough, until ſuch time as they had reformed the ſame, which thing was through his good endeavour reedified and perfected again, and ſo remaineth to this day: for although ſome hapily ſee ſtanding thoſe of their own parents, yet it were good they ſhould forſee that no others be pulled down; for that there is not to be looked for but that ſuffering ſuch injuries to reſt unpuniſhed, the doers thereof will in time grow more inſolent, and have a caſt to overthrow theirs alſo.

And now being in ſpeech of Moniments, I cannot but remember their ignorance who make ſmall account of any anceſtor except before the Conqueſt, weening that all that he croſ-

But theſe men will not ſtoop one jot under the Conqueſt, telling many fables of their anceſtors then preſerving their Houſes, Honours, and Armories, forgetting quite that it is much more glorious and honourable to be deſcended from a moſt famous nation conquering, then ſuch people people by plain feat of Arms subjuged, for as the Poet saith, quis enim sua prælia victus

Commemorare velit? referam tamen ordine, nec tam
Turpe fuit vinci, quàm contendisse decorum est, Magnaque dat nobis tantus solatia victor.

So that if they have any thing praise-worthy left to brag of, it it that they well contended with so puissant conquerors, which were then in their time as wise, glorious, and famous a nation as were in the whole world to be found.

Another sort there be not much more skilful, who if they see any Armory, straight enter into the comparison of the fairness thereof: and foul and false is it, if mettal lie upon mettal alone, or colour upon colour: And yet I could wish we should never have more dishonourable men nor worse souldiers then have so born their Armory: for to omit that worthy Godfrey, and that Mack Morise King of Lymster in Ireland, whose only daughter and heir was married to Richard Strongbowe Earl of Pembrook, and bare in a black shield a red ramping Lion; of our own Sir Richard Sambach of Sanbach in Chesshire, Sir William Wakbirge of Wakbirge in Darbishire, two valiant Knights, yet both bare colour upon colour. Passing the number of examples, I will recite the words of mine Author speaking of the adventures of a brave Knight in the company of Sir Robert Canole resting by Paris.

This

This Knight having vowed to ſtrike with his launce on the barriers of the city, performed it, and then the words be theſe: Celluy cheualier ie ne ſca comment il auoit nom ne de quel pays il iſſoit mais s' armoit a gueulles a de deux fouſes noyeres et vne bordure noyre non endente. And although I grant they be not ſo well to be diſcerned, as when metal and colour be varied the one with the other; yet ſithence the number be great of moſt worthy men that have born their Arms in ſuch manner, I will eſteem their marks as honourable as the reſt, and never impute any falſity to them.

And this kind of men alſo commonly diſcant upon the proportion, nature, and quality of the device, as if the name of Richard were better then Robert; and Ralph better then Roger; and in their conceits the Eagle or Faulcon are the faireſt birds to be born of all feathered fowls, and ſo of other the like: when indeed except for the reverence due to the Bearers, who do honour their bearings by their renown, vertue and valure, otherwiſe there is no difference in the fairneſs of marks: but that thoſe only are to be preferred which be eaſieſt to be perceived, diſcerned, and known to be the ſame things they be marked out for: And therefore the Capitale of Beuſz black Midas head with his fair long Aſſe-ears, was as good a creſt, as Sir John Chandos chriſtians head proper in a white ſcarffe goodly enuel-

lopped: And as fair a coat is Hopwells, being three red Hares playing on Bagpipes in a silver shield, as Newinton which bare d' Azure three Eglets d' Argent displaid.

And now me thinks I hear some that esteem me to mend, and become more fine, skilfull, and Herauld-like in my emblazons, as using the French phrases of d'azyer & d'argent, who think, I doubt not, but that I have committed a great error for want of using the said French phrases in my emblazons; notwithstanding I will joyn in opinion with such as esteem it to be more proper to speak and use English terms and phrases in an English book dedicated to Englishmen, then French or Latin, otherwise than cited authority leadeth.

Thus far from Mr. Erdswike publisht by Mr. Wyrley.

I come now to what that most expert Herauld Robert Glover Somerset hath sayed upon this subject of Differences, in his Book De Origine & Antiquitate Armorum, &c.

Apud nos in Anglia, longo & approbato usu, triplices observantur Armorum Differentiæ; scilicet Principales, Consanguineorum, & Extraneorum.

Bordura, sive fimbria simplex, componata, aut alio modo semmata, vel distincta per endenturas, & crenelaturas, quæ dicuntur principales differentiæ;

quia in Armis nunquam cernuntur, nec ullo alio usui destinantur, nisi ad illorum differentiam & discrepantiam.

Differentiæ Consanguineorum sunt Crescens, Macula, Merulus, Annulus, Fos-lilij & similia, quæ dicuntur Consanguineorum differentiæ, quia seruiunt & destinantur consanguineis, ab uno & eodem stipite descendentibus: Ut filius junior, dum cælebs & innuptus remanserit gerens Arma patris sui cum tali parva differentia dignoscatur. Et inter multos fratres, ut quilibet eorum possit bene secerni & cognosci ab alio per sua Arma in prælijs & expeditionibus bellicis; & priæcipue quo ad Nativitatis & genituræ suæ statum & præeminentiam, portabunt Arma domus & familiæ unde sunt prægnati, cum tali parva differentia. At postquam ductis uxoribus, multiplicatisque liberis, novam per se constituerint familiam, rejectis prioribus minutis differentijs, Arma domus cum Labello, Bordura, Quarterio, Benda, aut alia graviori distinctione, additione, vel commutatione portare debent, quo debinc & illorum familia, ab originali illa familia, unde oriuntur, Armorum delatione facile precipi, distingui, & separari. Et tamque est verus, naturalis, & genuinus Armorum usus, ut per easdem cognoscantur & distinguantur familiæ & agnationes, ob quam causam proculdubio in initio inventa fuerant.

Differentiæ Extraneorum sunt, Barrulæ, Bendæ, Fasces; Tigna, sive signa capitalia, Palæ, Quarterijæ, riæ, & similia, quæ extraneorum dicuntur notæ: Quia licet Extraneo Arma cujuscunque domus seu familiæ portare & ostendere, cum hujusmodi incrementis et additione sine quorumcunque præjudicio vel offensione.

Harum Differentiarum vero usu neglecto, dum his diebus juniores filij minutulas illas Crescentium, Macularum, Merulorum, Annulorum, atq; Florum differentias retinere solent, easque ad suos quoque posteros transmittant, familiarum notitia (quæ per Armorum delationes cognosci, secerni, et distingui solebant) prorsus obfuscatur, et deletur.

With us in England, there hath been a threefold Difference observed in Arms; that is to say of the Chiefs, or Principals; for those of Consanguinity; and of Strangers.

The principal Differences are a Labell, or string with points, or pendents unlike: sometimes plain; and sometimes chang'd.

The Border, or plain fillet, componed, or distinguished by Endenting, or Engrailing, which are called the Principal Differences; because they are never seen in Arms, or designed, but for Differences.

The Differences for such as are of Consanguinity, are a Crescent, a Mullet, a Martlet, an Annulet, a Flower de Lys, and the like; which are called Differences of kinsmen; because they are designed and serve for those which are descended from one and the same stock: as for example, a younger son, ſon, whilſt he continues a Batcheler and not married, he is known by bearing his Fathers Arms with ſuch a ſmall diſtinction or difference. And amongſt many Brothers, to the end that each of them may be diſcern'd and known from another by his Arms in Battels, and warlike Expeditions, and ſpecially as to their primogeniture and preheminence, they bore the Arms of the Houſe and Family, whence they ſprung, with ſuch a ſmall Diſtinction. But afterwards, when married, and had children, being Heads of new Families, they quitted thoſe former minute and petty Differences, they bore the Arms of their Houſe with a Labell, Bordure, Quarter, Bend, or ſome other greater diſtinction or addition, which thenceforth might evidently diſtinguiſh them and their Family from the original Houſe and Stock from whence they were deſcended. Such being the true, natural, and genuine uſe of Arms, that each Family and Kindred might be known and diſtinguiſht from one another; that being doubtleſs the cauſe for which they were at firſt deviſed.

As to the Differences of Strangers, they were Barrulets, Bends, Feſſes, Cheverons, or capital marks; Pales, Quarters, and the like, which are ſaid to be the Badges and marks of Strangers; becauſe it is lawful for a Stranger of any Houſe or Family to bear his Arms with theſe kind of diſtinctions and differences, without doing injury or giving offence to any.

But these Differences being grown out of use now adays younger Sons do not only retain these petty Distinctions of Crescents, Mullets, Martlets, Annulets, and Flowers, but transmit them to their posterity; whence it is, that the Distinction and proper knowledg of several Families, which had wont to be perspicuous by the bearings in their Arms, is now totally confounded and obscured.

Hereunto I shall add what the most learned Camden, sometimes Clarencieux King of Arms, hath expressed as to this point:

* "No Gentlemen ought to bear their Differences in Armory, otherwise then the Office of "Armory requireth: And when younger Brethren "do marry, erect, and establish new Houses, are "accordingly to bear their Arms with such Di"stinctions and Differences, that they may be "known from their elder Families, out of which "they were descended; the King of Arms of the "Province to be consulted withall, and such Dif"ferences of Houses are to be assigned and esta"blish'd by his privity and consent, that so he "may advise them to the best, and keep record "thereof; otherwise Gentlemen may either hurt "themselves, by taking such a Difference as shall "prejudice the chief House from whom they are "descended.

* Taken out of his papers in the Cottonian libra

Let us now see what Sir Henry Spelman (whose memory is not a little famous for his knowledg in Antiquities, and Heraulday) hath written as to this matter.

De Discerniculis.

* *Pluribus idem Insigne deferre, absq; debita differentia sua, fas non est: Ne ejusdem gentis familijs; ne ejusdom familiæ fratribus. Touching ſmall Differences, being the Latin before mentioned, put in Engliſh.

It is not at all lawful for ſeveral perſons to bear one and the ſame Arms, without a due Difference; no not to thoſe of the ſame family though they be Brothers thereof.

To

To the chief of the family, the intire Arms without any difference do belong, but the younger branches are to have their respective Differences, and bear them in the midst of the upper part of the Escocheon, according to Lee, which Wriothesley (a Herauld under K. Edw. 4th) affirms to be of his devising.

To the eldest son, in his fathers life time, was assigned a Labell of three points; but if his grandfather was living, with five points, ever different, if we give credit to Lee.

Which (like a Coronet) the Labells hanging at it, is therefore assigned to the eldest son, that as he is the glory of the family he may seem to be adorned above the rest.

Antiently this distinction was conferred on the second, third or fourth, either by different colour, or number of the Labells.

To the second Brother they assigned a Crescent: to the third a Mullet of five points; to the fourth a Martlet; to the fifth an Annulet; to the sixth a Flower de Lys.

And by these Differences the six sons of Thomas Beauchamp the XIIII Earl of Warwick, (who died in the thirty fourth year of K. Edw. 3.) are shewed forth in an old window of the Church of St. Mary at Warwick; so that you may see that this usage is ancient.

Some who have written in the time of K. Henry the seventh, have distinguisht the Heir himself by a Creſcent, that by the acceſſion of Light they might ſhew that the inheritance was coming to him.

And to the ſecond Brother, whom they take to be the third boundary of the family (attributing the firſt to the father, and the ſecond to the heir) they aſsign a Labell of three points: To the third a Labell of four points; and to the fifth a Labell of five points.

But none of theſe kind of Diſtinctions were uſed amongſt the Antients; Who ſtudying apparent and perſpicuous Differences, often inverted the paternal colour; ſometimes augmented the particular chardge in the ſhield; ſometimes diminiſhing the ſame; and ſometimes inſerting another ſort of bearing, eſpecially from the mother; but ſometimes totally quitting their paternal Arms, and aſſuming new.

But if the reſpective branches of the family did retain their Anceſtors Arms, then they did uſe apparent and conſpicuous Differences either by Labells, Bends, Borders, Quarters, Cantons or the like.

Examples whereof we have almoſt all in one family.

As in that of le Strange, ſometimes famous for their valour in the marſhes of Wales; whereof there were three diſtinct Barons; who had a ſheild gules, with two Lyons paſſant Argent, which John le le Strange the fourth Baron of Knockyn, as the chief of that houſe, did bear.

But Fulke le Strange, Baron of Corfham and Blakmere, who deſcended from the Grandfather of the ſaid John, by a third ſon, inverted the colours, bearing in a field Argent, two Lyons paſſant gules.

Likewiſe Roger le Strange Baron of Elleſmere, who deſcended from the ſame grandfather by a fourth ſon, bore the ſame Arms, with a Border engrayled Or.

Alſo Roger his father, after he had marryed Maud the daughter of William de Beauchamp, bore nyne Croß-croſlets Argent betwixt his ſilver-lyons.

Moreover Hamon le Strange, who deſcended from the ſaid John the fourth, by a fifth ſon, bore the Arms of his Brother, John the ſixth Baron of Knockyn, with a Bendlet Or; and fixing himſelf at Hunſtanton in Norfolk (which he obtained in the year 1309 from John his Brother) was the original of that worthy family, which doth ſtill remain there, bearing the ſame Difference.

But the ſayd John le Strange the ſixth Baron of Knockyn, did ſometime environ his Lyons with an Orle of Martlets, as by his Seals are to be ſeen.

At the ſame time another John le Strange, who was Lord of Ercalene (in Shropſhire) bore the Arms of Roger le Strange of Elleſmere with a Bendlet Azure.

Which kind of Differences, as many do affirm,

are most worthy of commendation, because as military Badges, first used for distinction, they are much more discernable.

For by these small and petty Differences, there is both error and danger, as it is evident by those Hennovers of which Froissard speakes; who fighting under the Standard of William de Baileul, with Barrs Argent and Azure counterchanged, and over them two Chevrons gules striving to repair thereto, came to the Standard of Robert Baileul his younger Brother, distinguisht but by a small golden-cross, which occasioned a total rout to them all, whereby they paid dear for their mistake.

I do therefore smile at, and despise these pettey Differences, which now a days are used; whereas the Arms themselves, leaving their native stations, in Shields, Banners, and habiliments of warr, doth now chiefly appear in Glass-windows and sleight household stuff, where the largeness of the distinction is not at all regarded.

Having now done with these English writers, let us hear what the French say thereto.

Mons. Charles Segoigne, Advocate of the Parliament, and of the Council of Estate, and of the privy-council of the King in his Tractate, called Tresor Heraldique, printed at Paris 1657. Pag. 459.

Pour celles des maisons particularies, chascun en use

For Differences of particular Houſes, each one uſeth as he pleaſeth: nevertheleſs the pieces that ordinarily are uſed, are the Labell; the Bordures; the Baton, or Cotice; the Franc Canton (id eſt the Dexter Canton) the Mullet; the Creſcent; the Star, the Beſant [the Beſant in the French acceptation being a roundell, either Or or Argent.]

Le Trophee d' Armes (whoſe author conceals himſelf) a book printed at Paris an. 1650. Pag. 33.

Les pleines Armes ſont reſervees aux aiſnez par les loix divines & humaines: Les Cadets & puiſnez les portent auſſi, mais avec quelq; differences d' inferiorite; ce que l' on appelles Briſures, dont le nombre n' eſt point limite, puis qu' elles dependent de la fantaſie.

Les uns prennent Eſtoilles; Croiſsans; Soleils, animaux, oyſeaux, fleurs, & autres choſes poſees d' ordenaire ſur le flanc dextre de l' Eſcu, en chef ou montantes d' icelui. Des autres briſent en diminuant les pieces; & d' autres en changeant les eſmail de leur Armes.

Mais le plus ſouvent pour Briſure, on ſe ſert du Lambeau; de la Bordure; de l' Orle; Baſton; Bande Bande ou Cottice, que ie range ici ſelon leur dignite. Car on tient que ſ' il ſe trouvoit cinq, puiſnez en un maiſon, le Lambeau appertiendroit au premier ; le Bordure au ſecond ; & auſſi des autres.

Apres quoy, pour ſou-briſures, on chargeroit de Lambeau, qui d' une figure qui d' une autre.

Secondement de la charger de Torteaux ou Beſans : Troiſieſmement de la Componee. Et finalement de la charger de pluſieurs figures, ou d' une ſoule.

Il en eſt de meſme des autres Briſures.

Which in Engliſh is thus.

The plain Arms are reſerved to the eldeſt ſons, both by divine and humane laws : The Cadets (or younger) bear the ſame Arms, but with ſome Difference of inferiority, which we call Briſures : of which the number is not limitted, but depends upon fancy.

Some take Starrs, Creſents, Sunns, Beaſts, Birds, Flowers, and other things, put moſt commonly upon the dexter Flanc of the Eſcocheon ; upon the cheife part of the ſame ; or moving, or iſſuing thence. Others difference by diminiſhing the peices of the chardge, or changing the colours.

But

But moſt commonly for Briſures (or differences) we make uſe of the Labell; the Bordure; the Orle; the Baton; the Bend, or Cottice, which I range here according to their dignity: For we hold, that if there be five puiſnes in a houſe, the Labell belongs to the firſt; the Bordure to the ſecond, and ſo of the reſt.

So that the puiſnes of the firſt puiſnes for double (or ſub-briſures) ſhall augment the pendents of the Labell: the firſt with one; the ſecond with two: the reſt accordingly to the number of five.

After which, for Sub-briſures, or differences, we muſt chardge the Labell with one figure or another.

The Sub-briſures of the Bordure, are firſt of all to make it Engrailed.

Secondly to chardge it with Torteaux,or Beſants.

Thirdly to Compone (or Gobone) it. And finally to chardge it with various ſorts of figures or with one alone.

The ſame muſt be done with the other ſort of Briſures or differences.

Note that the French Blazoners, do, by Torteauxes mean Roundles of colors: And by Beſants thoſe of mettal; viz. Silver, and Gold.

The book of St. Albans ſayth, that Labells are excellent Differences; as with three, four, five, or more points. It alſo ſpeaks of Croſs-croſlets, Mullets, or the like. Likewiſe of Bordures changed, in form, or in color.

We

We will conclude this chapter of Arms, and Blazons with acknowledging and distinguishing the eldest sons from the younger and inferior.

* The eldest are known and discerned from the other by the plain paternal Arms without any Brisure (id est diminution) whatsoever, except the father gave the same so.

It is ordinarily seen in illustrious and most noble Houses, that the second son quartereth the fathers Arms, with them of his mother; but this occasioneth confusion to their descent and linage, if they have store of male children:

Others diversifye and vary in the cheif, or else in the first quarter and Canton of the cheefe, which is termed of Honour; or else Partissent (a), Flanquent (b), Entent (c), en poincte, ou mettent (d) sur le tout:

But the most certain knowledge is made by Brisures, so far as to the seventh generation, the end of all patronage [Brisures signifying any thing added besides the original chardge.]

It is an assured rule, that among males, the eldest deſt acknowledgeth himſelf, and he ought to be acknowledged by his father's Arms, if he be no otherwiſe ſtipuled by contracts of marriage, of donation, or of ſubſtitution, which do extend ſo far as to the fourth heir. And if all the males would bear the fathers Arms, they ought to be diſtinguiſhed according to degree of Birth, or primogeniture, by Briſures.

But the ſecond ſon deit Porter le Lambeau de trois pieces; which is to be underſtood of metal or color, and which alſo ought to be obſerved in all other Briſures.

The third ſon une ſimple Bordure. The fourth le Orle; The fifth le Baſton: And the ſixth le Bande.

If there be any more, the Cheife; the firſt or laſt Canton of the Cheife, or elſe le Ente en Pointe will ſerve to be remarked.

The aſſailants or challengers of all the younger thus born muſt be acknowledged by doubles Briſures; in regard the eldeſt ſon iſſued of the ſecond, ought to retain and bear the Fathers Arms avecques leur Briſure le Lambeau de trois pieces en chef.

The ſecond le Larabeau de quatre pieces en chef.

The third pareil Lambeau monuant le cheif.

And the fourth pareil Lambeau charge ſolon ſa fantaſie d'Aigles, Lyons, Croiſſants, Roſes, Alcryons, Merlets, ou Diapre.

The ſecond ſon iſſuing of the firſt fourth, l' Orle, which his deſcendents and he may diverſifye; d' Eſchecquette, pale, counterpale, Lozange, Frelte, Fuſille, Faiſes, conterfaiſes, Paile, Viure (e), cheveronne contre-cheveronne; Verſe, (f) contre-verſe; or chardged with the forenamed Beaſts with pannes (g), Marles, Molettes, Eſtoiles, ou de ruſtres (h), or other varieties, which may be put into Arms.

The ſecond ſon of the firſt fifth, and his deſcendents may change and vary le Baſton, as hath been ſaid before and the like.

Of the ſecond ſon, and his aſſaylants of the firſt ſix a la Bend (i), which may be Coticee, jumelle (k), Breteſcee (l), Feuillee (m) de ſix, componee, Endenchee, ou chargee d' animaux, ou de pannes.

But it is to be held for a rule, and an infallible Maxime in Arms, and the noble art of painting, and Blazon, that he which beareth leaſt is the beſt, which will ſerve for queſtion and enquirie.

A True

An Advertiſement TO THE READER.

When the Copie, from which this ſubſequent Catalogue of the Engliſh Nobility is printed, was ſent to the Preſs, the name and Title of Francis Lord Howard of Effingham was omitted, (tho in the ſecond Volume of the Baronage of England publiſhed in anno 1676 upon the beſt information I could then obtain, I had there taken notice of that perſon, as heir expectant to the ſaid Honour, after the death of Charles Earl of Nottingham, who was then very aged and iſſueleſs) doubting to fix him therein before he had regularly made his claim thereto, might give offence to the reſt of the Nobility; but upon view of my Copie: by ſome intelligent perſons, who nevertheleſs thought it proper to be inſerted I ſubmitted thereto: whereat if any take offence I humbly crave pardon: it being my clear opinion, that ſuch of a collateral line, as have right by deſcent to any Title of Honour, accruing to them by virtue of an entail thereof made long ſince; they ſhould openly exhibite their claim unto the King, with due proof of their right thereto (as hath heretofore in like cases been done) and thereupon, with his Majesties allowance thereof, have the same, by the direction of the Earl Marshal, orderly registred.

Whereas in the Catalogue of the Vicounts, I have inserted Leicester Devereux Vicount Hereford, now in minority; I have hereby thought fit to advertise the Reader; that, upon certain exceptions taken in Parliament in anno 1677. to his right for that Title, by reason of the attainder of Robert Earl of Essex and Vicount Hereford in 43 Eliz. and restitution of that Honour being only limitted to Robert his Son and the two Sisters of the said Robert: the decision whereof was then, by order of the House of Lords, respited till the said Leicester Devereux shall come of full Age.

It is likewise to be noted; whereas in this ensuing Catalogue Pag. 71. Charles Wilmot Earl of Rochester is inserted; that since the printing thereof he dyed, whereby that Title of Honour is totally extinct: and therefore, that the number of Earls mentioned in pag. 69. lin. penult. is to be no more then 68. And that James Compton Earl of Northampton mentioned p. 70. is since dead but succeeded by George his Son who is under Age.

I have likewise thought fit, further to advertise the Reader, that the Book-Seller being desirous to publish Catalogues of the Scottish and Irish Nobility: such hath been the unexpected delay, in obtaining perfect Copies from Scotland and Ireland that,

that the publication of my papers (which have been printed more then four months since) hath by reason thereof, been so long retarded, that it hath necessitated some alterations and inlargements now added.

Also, that as to the following Catalogue of the Scottish Nobility, Sir George Mackenzie, the worthy Lord Advocat of Scotland in his letter to me bearing the 30th of December 1681 doth signify, that he did review it and gave his assistance for the better compleating thereof and doth certify that it is very perfect and exact. But the said Sir George Mackenzie in a learned Treatise of Precedency (publish'd at Edinburgh 1680 together with another of Heraldry both written by himself being a person eminently renow'd for his several other excellent works) having at large discoursed of the Precedency due to the Arch-Bishops of Scotland, to the end that no injury be done to them by concealing their just right therein, I shall here transcribe what he saith as to that point.

"I find by a letter in An. 1625, that before "King James his going into England, the Mar-"quesses of Scotland, did take place from the Arch-"bishops: And by a letter in An. 1626, renew'd "in An. 1664. The Arch-bishop of St. Andrews "is to take place before all subjects. Yet I think, this "will not give him place from the Kings Sons, "Uncles, and Nephews, though they be likewise "subjects; since the word subjects must be here in-

"terpreted

" terpreted according to the custom of Nations, by " which these neare relations of Princes are preferr'd to all other subjects. Yet de facto since the later the Arch-bishops of St. Andrews cede to the " Lord Chancellor.

These Advertisements to the Reader, are to be prefixt before pag. 67.

From the first Erection of that Dignity until the year of God 1681 inclusive.

THE Preface.

WHereas in the year 1667 a Catalogue of the Baronets of England was by authority publiſhed; to the end that ſuch as had obtained Patents for that Honour, which were not enrolled, ſhould, by diſcerning an omiſſion of their names therein, take care to ſupply that defect, ſo that, upon a ſecond Impreſſion thereof they might be inſerted: Now, whereas, after twelve years and more, no Enrollments are yet to be found for ſundry perſons which have aſſumed this Title, which cauſeth ſome to doubt whether they can make any juſtifiable claime thereto.

Whereas therefore no perſon whatſoever ought to take upon them this Title of dignity, but ſuch as have been really advanced thereto by Letters Patents under the great Seale of England; it is thought fit by the right Honorable Robert Earl of Aylesbury, who now exerciſeth the Office of Earl Marſhall of England, that this preſent Catalogue of ſuch, touching whom the Docquet-books remaining with the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery do take notice, ſhall be pub- issued; to the end that those of whom no memorial upon Record is to be found, to justifie their right to this Title, may be known; and care henceforth taken in Commissions of the peace, and otherwise, that it be not given unto them until they shall manifest the same unto the Lord Chancellor of England, and have speciall order from his Lordship to enroll such Patents, whereby they pretend Title to that dignity.

As also, that regard be had of giving credit to any other Catalogues of the Baronets which are already publisht, or that shall be publisht, than what is taken from the authority of those Docquet-books above mentioned, or the Enrollment of their Patents.

THE Bookſeller TO THE READER.

THe frequent complaints I have heard, from ſeveral learned and Ingenuous perſons, of the errors and defects in all the Catalogues, of late Printed, of the Nobility in his Majeſties Dominions, created in me a belief, that the publication of exact and correct Catalogues thereof, would be very acceptable to the publick. And this induced me, to attempt it. In order whereunto, I obtained the preceeding Catalogue of the Nobility of England, from the Author of the aforegoing Treatiſe, a perſon who by reaſon of his Office of Garter, is beſt enabled to publiſh it moſt correctly and Authentickly. And in Auguſt laſt (the Parliament of Scotland then ſitting) by the favour of a freind there, I procured a copy, of the then Lord Regiſter his Role of the Nobility of Scotland. But their Chriſtian names not being inſerted therein, my Correſpondent was ſo careful and induſtrious, as to inform himſelf thereof, either from the ſeveral Noblemen themſelves, then aſſembled into Parliament, or from the near Relations, or intimate acquaintances of thoſe abſent; and for thoſe few Chriſtian names of which he could receive no certain information, he hath left blanks; and having thus procured it, he tranſmitted it to me. Since when it hath been communicated to ſeveral, very intelligent perſons in the affairs of that Kingdom, who have very well approved thereof, ſo that I may with a modeſt aſſurance affirm this preſent Catalogue to be more accurate then moſt of this nature hitherto publiſh'd. And yet I will not confidently avert that there are no errors therein, for I am told the Nobility of Scotland are no more careful, then the Noblemen of England, to Regiſter their deſcents and ſucceſſions; the defect of which doth almoſt occaſion an impoſſibility, with an accurate exactneſs to publiſh any Catalogue of this nature. But if any perſon ſhall percieve any error or defect therein, or any Nobleman judges himſelf injured, either by any omiſſion or miſrecitall of his name or title, if he ſhall be pleaſed to notify it to me, with directions how it ought to be corrected and ſupplyed, or to inform therein Mr. Robert Meine Poſt-Maſter of (Edinburgh) I ſhall take all poſſible care that in the next edition all the errors may accordingly be amended, and all due right don to every individual Nobleman.

Coreſpondent

To the preſent Catalogue, is annexed a liſt of all the Shires and Royal Burroughs in Scotland, with the number of Barons, Commiſsioners, and Burgheſſes they do reſpectively retaine to ſerve in Parliament. Which I have don in the ſame manner, as in compliance with the deſires of ſeveral perſons, I have publiſhed the preceeding Alphabetical Catalogue of all the Shires, Cities, Burroughs and Cinque-Ports in England and Wales.
